

The Gobi Desert gets incredibly star-rich night skies and this water and timing station was in a prime spot to observe it during the recent running of the Ultra Trail Gobi. The race deploys these tiny outposts every 10km to keep runners supplied during their 400-km solo ordeal. Photo: Zhang Bin